Suzanne Inglis Appointed Senior Vice President of Nursing at Fisher-Titus Medical Center

Suzanne Inglis, M.S.N., B.A., R.N., FACHE, was recently appointed senior vice president of Nursing at Fisher-Titus Medical Center. In her new role, Inglis administers and organizes the departments of nursing, sterile processing center, cardiovascular, oncology, pulmonary medicine, and sleep center. Inglis establishes objectives for these departments and institutes the organizational structure for achieving these objectives. She also coordinates the activities of all of the departments and nursing units while working closely with other departments to facilitate the optimum quality of care at Fisher-Titus Medical Center

During her 40-year career in nursing, Inglis has been able to make a difference in a variety of ways. Prior to her new role, Inglis served as Assistant Vice President of Nursing at Fisher-Titus managing cardiovascular services, surgical services, pulmonary medicine, wound healing and sleep medicine. She served in this role since 2009. She also played a key role in developing the cardiovascular relationship with the Cleveland Clinic's Heart & Vascular Institute. Inglis began her career at Fisher-Titus in 2006 as the first Director of Cardiovascular Services where she managed the operations of invasive and non-invasive cardiology and vascular services. Inglis has been instrumental in the development of Fisher-Titus Medical Center's state-of-the-art cardiovascular program including recruiting physicians, creating service lines, and managing an $11 million construction project which brought all cardiovascular services under one roof.

Inglis also has served as an executive director of a 23-physician cardiology practice, a cardiac service line manager, nurse manager, nurse educator and staff nurse. On the clinical side, she worked at Riverside Methodist Hospital in Columbus for 24 years and learned the business side of health care at MidOhio Cardiology and Vascular Consultants in Columbus for nine years.

Inglis of Marblehead is board certified in health-care management as an American College of Healthcare Executives Fellow (FACHE). She has a master of science in nursing from the University of Phoenix, a bachelor of arts from The Ohio State University and a nursing diploma from Good Samaritan Hospital School of Nursing, Dayton.
