Andrew Chileski Named New CIO at Memorial Health

Marysville, Ohio – Andrew Chileski has been selected as Memorial Health's new Chief Information Officer (CIO), a position he will assume on July 30, 2018.

As part of the system leadership team of Memorial, Chileski will be responsible for all information technology and strategy for Memorial Hospital, Memorial Gables, all Memorial outpatient facilities, and the various primary care and specialist physician practices. He will bring that expertise to the leadership table for discussions related to the continuous technological advancements and integration at the independent health system.

Chileski comes to Memorial from Berger Health System in Circleville, Ohio where he led their IT initiatives for more than 19 years. His most recent position was as Berger's CIO and Vice President of Support Services where he was hailed for his technical skills as well as his business acumen and strategic focus.

"Andy appreciates the fact that we are an independent health system and he honors the commitment we all have to making decisions that benefit our patients," comments Chip Hubbs, CEO/President of Memorial Health. "His reputation as a leader, strong collaborator, change agent and a man of high integrity were appealing to us as so much is evolving quickly in our industry. I am confident he will build on our existing strengths to advance our IT initiatives even further in support of delivering the very best patient care."
